Change is in the Air... Standards

Our sixth topic in the series

Northeast Wisconsin EH&S Roundtable

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2011

7:30 - 9:30 A.M.

New particulate matter, ozone, carbon monoxide, nitrogen dioxide, and lead ambient standards will be causing headaches for a broad range of industries. What else could go wrong — greenhouse gas regulation?

PRESENTED BY:

Our next environmental roundtable will review the current status of the ambient standard revisions and explore how it may constrain existing and new industrial operations in Wisconsin and the Midwest. Emphasis will be on the “big picture” elements that factor into long-term asset decisions — new source review (PSD and non-attainment area NSR) and technology requirements (NSPS/BACT/MACT/GACT).

The EH&S Roundtable provides an informal setting for industrial and commercial facility managers with EH&S responsibility to receive the latest information on timely issues—and share insights with their peers.

Who Should Attend?

The EH&S Roundtable series is designed to foster information exchange among Environmental, Health, and Safety professionals active in the industrial and commercial sectors. The informal setting will encourage candid interchange among presenters and participants. Benefits are expected to be greater understanding of the compliance challenges facing facility owners and operators, and a sharing of “real world” best practices.
